

Social

Desperate House Cats Rescue's Party

photos by • Brenda Batey

Party: Stephanie Estes, Caitlin Gamble, and Allison Appelton.

A group of friends who help cats through the Desperate House Cats Rescue got together at Outback restaurant for a holiday party. After sharing Bloomin' Onions and cheese fries, everyone ordered from the menu, selecting salads, hamburgers, steaks, seafood and ribs.

Then they had a "Dirty Santa" gift exchange, in which participants take turns choosing wrapped gifts or "stealing" gifts others have already opened.

The CD from the new Michael Jackson movie was "stolen" most often. Other gifts included candles, wine, beauty products, picture frames, a gift box from Harry and David, and much more.

Members of Desperate House Cats foster cats in their homes, where they receive loving care. Each adopted cat is sent to its new home with a gift bag of toys and a DVD about proper cat care.

Desperate House Cats, which was formerly known as The Privileged Pet, rescues from shelters only and each cat is fully vetted.

For more information about adopting a cat, visit the website at desperatehousecats.petfinder.com.

Party: Julia Duke and Darrell Thompson.

Party: Justin Curtis, and Madison
and Heather Fleisher.

Party: Alecia Malin Fair, Donna Phillips, Renee Rome, and Grace Renshaw.